Brigham H. Roberts one of the seven presidents of seventy, delivered a brief address upon the application of the church system of releving distress to cities, states or the nation. He called attention to the great floods and their attendant distress and declared that these disasters had been foreshadowed as early as 1821 by the Prophet Joseph Smith. Elder Roberts said that in 1865 the Saints suffered much loss because of drougth and the grasshopper plague. The following winter was very severe and the people lost much of their stock. In addition they were called upon to share with hundreds and thousands of immigrants on their way to Utah or Callfornia their already depleted stores. Yet an abiding faith in God brought them safely through the crisis. is most abide by it and we rejoice in abiding."

Apostle Orson F. Whitney spoke in refusation of statements that the Mormon doctrine taught scattering and a lack of adherence. He declared that, instead of division, the Mormon church stood above all else for unity and unification, for bringing together.

Apostle Heber J. Grant presented the general authorities, who were sustained without opposition. There were no changes in the roster.

The great meeting then adjourned for six months.

Two large overflow meetings were held vesterday at the Assembly hall, the meeting in the forenoon attracting more than 2000 while the capacity of the building was taxed in the afternoon to accommodate the 4000 worshipers present. Music on both occasions was supplied by the Thirty-first ward choir and was one of the features of the day.

Apostlo George F. Richards spoke at the morning session on the necessity of obedience to the laws of God. Andrew Jenson, Charles H. Hart of the first council of seventy, and Levi Edgar Young were the other speakers. The invocation was pronounced by Nathaniel V. Jones and the benediction by John N. Pike.

would deter young people from entering into the sacred marriage state.

"Many young men in our midst ought to marry. Some are afraid that they cannot support a wife in the manner in which she has been accustomed to live. Let me say to these that their fathers and their grandfathers reared large and noble families, and that they started life with far less than the young men of today have. By frugality, industry and the help of God, those forebears succeeded, and by the application of the same principles the young men of today also will succeed.

"It is also true that some young men because they fear they will not be supported as they would wish. I cannot bring myself to believe that any great number of young women seek marriage only to get some one to carn money for them to spend for pleasure and in extravagance.

A large number of young people are already taking the course and the officials are highly pleased with the progress being made. President John L. Herrick of the western states mission was the final speaker of the afternoon and told of the progress of the church's work in that field.

The usual vote was taken on sustaining the church officers, Joseph F. Smith, Jr., putting the questions. All of the present officers were sustained by unanimous vote and without debates.

The concluding musical number was a solo by Miss Edna Evans.

Make Your Trips to and From Work Pay for $985 Car

Play a Game on the Way to the Office-It Means a Fortune for You.

Ever stop to think that your trips | Suppose a picture shows a woman to and from work are simply a hanging out clothes on a line. Well, WASTE OF TIME?

Why not make these rides back and forth, now wasted, pay you a tremendous sum of money, and yet supply you with a tremendous amount of real exhilarating amusement?

Why not get the Booklovers' Contest pictures that have appeared thus far-you can get them all free—and solve them while en route?

Today picture No. 16 appears. There will be 77 pictures in all, each representing the title of a book. Those coming closest to naming the 77 book titles that the 77 pictures represent will get $5060 in awards. First prize is a $985 Studebaker touring car, and second award a $750 player piano!

You can get the 15 pictures already published by getting a contest cata-logue. The catalogue is simply a list of 5000 book titles, arranged in alphabetical order, for from this catalogue the 77 book titles represented by the pictures were selected. Then the ctures were drawn to represent the tles. So the 77 of the 5000 titles are the very titles that will bring you the

V. Jones and the benediction by John N. Pike.

The afternoon session was presided over by Joseph F. Smith. Jr. After an invocation by Moroni Snow the choir sang the anthem, "Star of Descending Night," and "Grant Us Peace, O Lord." Elder J. Golden Kimball of the first council of seventy was the principal speaker of the afternoon. He preached an "old-fashioned" sermon, using homely illustrations and holding the interest of his hearers throughout. His subject was "Frayer." and he contended that public worship is not the only form of worship, urging the efficacy of prayer in the home.

James W. McMurrin of the first council of seventy was the next speaker. He told of the establishment of a corperpondence course in missionary work inaugurated by the church officials and $1.00 will open a savings account. All money deposited by April 10 will bear four per cent interest from April 1.
